

Wilderness First Aid

Wilderness environments create special situations not usually encountered in an urban or suburban environment. This course will better prepare the responder for dealing with emergencies in remote locations with limited resources.

This program is extremely popular with outdoors people, prepper groups, and the Boy Scouts of America.

We offer this program in the American Red Cross, Health and Safety Institute \(HSI, ASHI\), and the Emergency Care and Safety Institute \(ECSI\). These programs meet and/or exceed the Boy Scouts of America requirements.

A valid CPR/AED/First Aid card from one of the providers above is a prerequisite to taking Wilderness First Aid.

Topics covered include:

- Preparation and Assessment
- Soft Tissue Injuries
- Heat and Cold Emergencies
- Bandages and Splints
- Moving and evacuating the injured
- Bleeding control
- Prevention

There are in-person and blended course options depending on the vendor (AHA, HSI, ECSI), and an in-person class generally runs 16 hours over two days. (This does not include the CPR/AED/FA class time).

Courses can be taught at our Queensbury location or at your location. Evolutions are usually done outside in real environments, severe weather permitting.

Contact us today to discuss Wilderness First Aid training for your troop or organization.

Authorized Reseller

Opening Hours

Feel free to contact us at any time. We can be reached during normal business hours at: (888) 722-0830 or info@strategicetc.com

Mon - Fri: 8^{AM} - 5^{PM}

Saturday: By Appointment

Sunday: By Appointment

Locations

Headquarters – 53

Luzerne Rd,
Queensbury, NY
12804

Connecticut Office –

2839 Dixwell Ave.,
Hamden, CT 06518

About US
AED Sales
Instructors
Blog
Contact

Strategic Emergency
Training and Consulting

Proud Member of

Copyright © 2026 Strategic Emergency Training & Consulting, LLC.

Privacy Policy
Terms & Conditions
Contact

